SALINA, Kan.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--PKM Steel Service, Inc., a global producer of heavy and intermediate structural steel, has announced an agreement to retain Mark Hamade as chief operating officer (COO) for the next ten years.

Under Hamade's management, PKM Steel Service will continue to focus on helping customers build innovative structures across a diverse range of industries. President and owner Frieda Mai Weis said she values the role Hamade has played in the company and is pleased to have secured his leadership through 2022.

"I am deeply appreciative of his contributions to PKM and the community at large, and I look forward to working with him as we continue to carry out our mission," she said. "He's a smart, passionate, independent thinker."

Hamade, who has more than two decades of executive leadership experience with various companies, was named COO of PKM Steel in April 2011 and looks forward to continuing his work in streamlining operations processes, optimizing production, and driving innovation for the company and its customers.

“This is a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to focus on transforming the industry,” Hamade said. “I am thrilled because I’m convinced that through strong partnerships, ambitious goals, and a commitment to impact, we can transform the steel industry and people’s lives.”

PKM Steel projects include structures at Denver International Airport, Principal Financial Group’s corporate headquarters, Purdue University, the Indianapolis Colts training complex, National Cooperative Refinery Association headquarters, and Tinker Air Force Base in Oklahoma City.
